

Anchoring your soul every day

Personality and Learning Styles of Your Child

We know it can be so hard to find time each day to take care of your relationship with the Lord. We want to make it easier for you, if we can. We suggest taking one of these thoughts at a time, or even just do part of one, when you can. We hope this will help you experience the hope of your relationship with Jesus as your soul's anchor every day.

- ❖ Read Proverbs 22:6. What hope or direction does this proverb offer to you, as a mother? What is it NOT promising?

- ❖ Read Colossians 1:9-14. What does Paul's prayer for the Colossians imply about the "knowability" of God? Why is that important?

What is the most important thing for us to know, according to Paul?

How can you use this principle in the training of your children? What priorities will you set and how will you go about this, given your child's/children's learning style and personality?

Read the passage again, this time substituting your child's/children's names where Paul refers to the Colossians (the "you's"), praying for each one this wonderful prayer.

- ❖ Read Deuteronomy 6:4-9. Based on this verse, what is the most important thing you can teach your children?

What is the principle here for when you teach your children?

Is there any prescription for how you teach your children?

Spend time thanking God for the way He has created your child(ren). Ask Him to give you strength, courage, and wisdom as you parent. Thank Him that you don't do this alone – if you're a Christ-follower, He is in you to lead, guide and comfort you.
