Welcome to Plough Library!

Over the summer, we added many new resources to meet your research needs, and we expect to add more over the coming academic year. Chief among them is our new online catalog, WorldCat Discovery. WorldCat Discovery lets you find books and ebooks at our library, articles in our journal collections (both print and online), resources in our databases, streaming videos, and more—all from a single search box. Other libraries’ resources are also identified. Citation help and interlibrary loan are incorporated into WorldCat Discovery, making it a truly one-stop shop. Basic Search covers general resources. For subject-specific resources, use Advanced Search. See page 2 for details and tips on using WorldCat Discovery.

We’re in the process of making the library more student-friendly. Coming soon is new furniture for the computers near the Reference Desk. We’ve removed excess shelving on the main floor to open up more space for students. For group study, we have tables of various sizes available. We also have carrels for solo study. You’ll find moveable whiteboards scattered around the library, as well as comfortable seating. We know you don’t want to disturb others, so we reserve the third floor as the library’s Quiet Zone. Feel free to talk with others on the lower levels—just not too loudly. There are vending machines on the lower level, and yes, that means you can eat in the library (please clean up after yourselves and recycle).

Other things you may not be aware of: we have a copier, scanners, printing from all computers, staplers, a hole punch, and a paper cutter for your use. Pick up an official Plough Library pencil. Take a break and play a board game or work a puzzle.

Don’t forget about books! We’ve added more popular reading items—short stories, graphic novels, science fiction—in addition to course-related material. So, come in for a break or for a marathon study session. Find something to support your coursework or to read for fun.

Finally, you’re invited to our 3rd annual Inside-Out Fall Festival, October 8, from 11 a.m. - 1 p.m. Play games, win prizes, and learn about all we have to offer.

We look forward to serving you!
This Summer, Plough Library went live with a brand new library search service called WorldCat Discovery. Now you can simultaneously search for and find:

- print books and DVDs
- ebooks
- journal articles from multiple databases
- streaming videos

Get started: Enter titles or topics into the main search box on our homepage, http://www.cbu.edu/library.

Tip #1:
By default, WorldCat Discovery searches for library items and holdings from “Libraries Worldwide”. Once you’ve run a search, look to the top left. To limit your search to just things available to us at CBU, check the Plough Library box.

Tip #2:
Only looking for print books? On the left side of the screen, you’ll find many limiters, including a section labeled Format. Under that, you can select Book (which generally includes ebooks) or Print Book. Use the other formats to limit to articles, etc.

Can I still search Databases individually?
Yes! Click on the A-Z Databases tab on the library homepage and use the dropdown menus to select a database by title or by subject.

Please Note:
Some databases cannot be searched using WorldCat Discovery. These include Mergent, Value Line Investment Survey, CAMIO, and LearningExpress Library.

Questions?
Attend one of our “Find What You Need When You Need It” workshops (see schedule on the next page).

Welcome Marie Ryall, new Periodicals Coordinator

A 2015 CBU graduate with a B.S. in Natural Science, Marie Ryall volunteered here at Plough Library for one summer before working as a paid library intern for two years. In that time, she played a crucial role in completing projects related to the periodicals collection, as well as assisting in other areas of the library. As Periodicals Coordinator, she will continue and expand on this work, including management of our student workers.

While working at Plough Library, Marie plans to continue her studies with a goal of becoming a high school librarian. Stop by and welcome the newest member of our team!
Sci-Fi & Dystopian Fiction

On August 27th, CBU’s Dystopian Literature Society held a book fair at Plough Library, selling books and offering free cookies to students. Keep an eye out for more events hosted by the Dystopian Literature Society.

In the meantime, check out our Sci-Fi & Dystopian Fiction display on our top floor. You’ll find titles like Battle Royale, V for Vendetta, World War Z, and The Walking Dead, along with classics like Fahrenheit 451 and A Clockwork Orange.

ACADEMIC SEARCH COMPLETE

EBSCO’s Academic Search Complete is a major upgrade from our previous subscription to Academic Search Premier. Searchable from within WorldCat Discovery or on its own from the A-Z Databases list, Academic Search Complete offers an enormous collection of full-text journals. Along with more coverage of Social Science and Humanities, we’ve gained access to a host of STM journals. New titles include Astronomy Letters, British Journal of Educational Technology, Chemistry & Ecology, Electromotion, Ethnology, Journal of Chemical Metrology, Journal of College Admission, Journal of Microelectronic & Electronic Packaging, Science and Engineering Ethics, Solar Physics, and hundreds more.

Academic Search Complete also offers video content from the Associated Press. Videos relevant to search terms will appear in a carousel in the result list. With footage from 1930 - present and updated monthly, this collection of approximately 60,000 videos covers a wide variety of topics.

JSTOR

This summer we added two more JSTOR collections to our subscription, to round out our selection of Arts and Sciences journals. New titles include Ethnology, Hispanic Review, Iranian Studies, Middle Eastern Studies, New Literary History, Performing Arts Journal, and Political Psychology.

Barbara Hill, In Memoriam
By Benjamin Head

It’s 6:30 a.m. at Christian Brothers University, sometimes dark, sometimes not; sometime rain and sometimes not; maybe even snow and ice. No matter, Barbara Hill was here to prepare for the six to seven hundred students we see at the library each day, starting at 7:45 a.m. For nearly thirty years, Barbara Hill was likely to be the first employee on duty at CBU. We can’t count security as they are here 24/7.

Barbara always met people with a smile. A kind chat was forthcoming to everyone she encountered as she went about her tasks, retrieving the morning newspapers from the Parkway entrance security guard, going to the Business Office or AVP’s office, to name a few. They all knew her and found her pleasant, a day maker. She would tell you about her family, her grandchildren, her church and listen to you in turn.

We at the library knew her as a very hard worker, dependable, accurate, and persistent—a mainstay of our entire operation. She would remind you that she was a math education major at the University of Memphis, which accounted for the order she always display in her life and her work.

We can’t say goodbye to Barbara Hill. We will just say, “You will be missed and we will see you later.”
